WILSON SUBMITS COPY OF GERMAN BOND AGREEMENT

Would Accept Them in Full Payment of Belgium's Indebtedness to United States.

[By Associated Press.] WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—President Wilson cleared his desk today of another matter growing out of the Paris peace conference by sending to Congress a copy of an agreement which he and the British and French Premiers entered into June 16, 1919, and under which the signatories bound themselves to recommend acceptance of German bonds in full payment of loans made to Belgium, prior to the armistice. The President presented with the agreement recommendations that Congress enact legislation which would enable the American Treasury to accept German bonds to the amount of $171,750,000, the amount of this country's total loans to Belgium, up to the armistice, plus interest.

The agreement and recommendations were read in the House of Congress, without comment from the floor. Neither house took any action in the matter.

The President, in transmitting the agreement made no explanation as to why it had not been submitted earlier, except to say that the reparations commission "has not as yet finally determined the details of the amount of the necessary bonds for the German government." He added that the agreement was not embodied in the treaty of Versailles, for various reasons.

A recommendation at this time that suitable legislative action should be taken, Mr. Wilson informed Congress. "My apparent somewhat premature action," he said, "in recommending termination of my administration, I have brought this matter to your attention, hoping that suitable action may be taken at the appropriate time."

Submission of the agreement so far as could be learned, clears the President's desk of all matters growing out of the Paris conference with the exception of the treaty of Versailles and Austrian and Polish treaties, but in view of the agreement is in the files of the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee.

ERNEST ARCHER WINS IN DECLAMATION CONTEST

"Tom Sawyer," "Huck Finn" and "Aunt Polly" came into their own as winners last night when the Ernest Archer, of St. Christopher's school, Richmond, took the prize in the Inter-school Declamation contest, held at the University of Richmond. His delivery of selections from Mark Twain's books was considered a masterpiece. He was considered a masterpiece in himself, and the judges had little trouble in reaching a decision in favor of the 12-year-old lad, although all the contestants were in keen battle, and none of them went so far as to gain a booby prize. It was a hard job between the larger number, but young Archer seemed an easy first.

Dr. H. B. Handy was director of the affair, and the welcoming address was made by Dr. F. W. Boatwright, president of the university. The contest last night was the first since 1912, the war entering into history on the following period, three hundred persons made up the gathering, which was enthusiastic from the first to the last. There were representatives from the schools at York Union, Emporia, Haysburg, and Chatham. The Training School, Newport News High School, and the University of Richmond, Richmond, Petersburg, and the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, were also present.

Miss Lucy Lippincott, who presided over the contest, said that the contest was the first time in the history of the series in which a girl has participated. Music was furnished by the University of Richmond orchestra.

81,000,000 IDLE ACRES TO START TREE-BEARING

Loading Tracts Will Be Put Back on Job by the State Foresters.

BY ALEXANDER F. JONES, United News Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—The world's greatest unemployment conference will be staged in Chicago on Thursday.

State foresters, under the leadership of Colonel W. B. Greeley, Federal chief forester, will try to map out a scheme that will put 81,000,000 acres of idle land back on the job of growing trees. The problem of salvaging some of this idle land is now being discussed by the forestry problems of eight Middle West States, but it is hoped that the legislative scheme to be formed here will be adopted by many other States.

Here are some of the problems that the foresters face: Because its timber, and the timber of Southern Minnesota, has disappeared, the lumber held in the soil by the trees is getting lower each year, according to water tables of the State Conservation Department. The fertility of the land is suffering accordingly.

Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin once had 12,000,000 acres of timber land, and today have only 2,000,000 left. In ten years, according to the foresters, these States will have to import half their timber.

America's worst desert today is in Northwest Pennsylvania, the foresters say. Its trees have been cut down, and the land is now a desert. The foresters say it is the worst devastated section of the country.

In the South, according to figures to be presented to the conference, approximately four-fifths of the pine trees have been cut, and the remainder is being cut at the rate of 25,000,000 daily. With the pine, the spruce is disappearing.

The Rocky Mountain States are declared to be cutting timber seven times as fast as it grows. In New England the dance of death is going on steadily to the jazz music of the lumberman's saw, but these States are replenishing by replanting cut-over land.

The Middle West States expect to get the ball rolling for reforestation by starting legislative pro-
